WINTER WAVE TAKES THREE LIVES; MANY MENACED BY FLOODS

Weather Toll Heavy;
California Feels Effects of Cold

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Wintry weather today had claimed three lives in California. Meanwhile, rescue parties in California and Nevada were pushing through heavy snows to aid many who have been trapped in the mountains.

Two dead were reported from northern California. They were Jack Stone, a trapper, who was found dead from exposure near Eureka. An unidentified man, believed to be a prospector, was found dead from exposure in a cabin near Redding.

E. L. Johnston, a homesteader, was found dead in his cabin, six miles from San Bernardino.

Two missing girls are being sought in the mountains back of San Bernardino, while another rescue party is trying to reach a mother and daughter in the same section. They are reported to be seriously ill.

Mattie Prevost, film actress, and five friends are beleaguered in the Tehachapies. They are said to be short of rations.

With lines of communication down, many communities and resorts throughout the state have not been heard from for several days. Highway traffic was still seriously affected by the snow fall.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—While a zero wave held the Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast region in its grip, steadily mounting flood waters in the Mississippi basin today threatened to carry death and destruction to a dozen communities.

The safety of thousands of persons is threatened in Indiana with both the Wabash and White Rivers on a rampage over acres of farm lands. Villages and small cities along the two flooded rivers are surrounded with water.

The town of Shoals in Martin County is surrounded by waters from the White River, and has been cut off for twenty-four hours.

On the Wabash River several levees have given way despite the efforts of workers who piled reinforcing stone and sand along the crumbling banks. At Vincennes, Ind., the Wabash had risen more than a foot in four hours.

Hundreds of acres of Illinois farm lands are inundated in the Kaskaskia River valley. incessant rainfall yesterday continued to choke the Kaskaskia and force it over its banks.

A severe blizzard trailed by zero temperatures swept the Rocky Mountain region and the upper Middle West states of Nebraska, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Montana and Wyoming. Temperatures as low as thirty degrees below zero were reported in Montana.

Incessant snowfall in the Rocky Mountain States has piled deep drifts, crippling transportation and wire communication. The cold wave in California has claimed two dead and several are missing.

THREE PERISH IN TWO FIRES

Two Children And Mother Victims

PORTSMOUTH, O., Jan. 15.—Two small children and the mother of one of them are dead here today as the result of two fires which completely destroyed their homes here late yesterday.

Nellie Boldman, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boldman of Duck Run, ten miles northwest of here, burned to death while she was strapped to a high chair. The baby's mother, Mrs. Goldie Boldman, was fatally burned when she attempted to rescue the screaming child from the flaming structure. She died a few hours later. The home was burned to the ground.

Explosion of a kerosene lamp started the fire, it is believed. Dorothy Noel, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Noel was burned to death in another explosion which was caused by an over-application of kerosene to a coal stove.

CLEVELAND'S CITY MANAGER AWAITING CHARGES BY ENEMY

Rabbi Compares Ouster
With Days Of Boss
Tweed

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 15.—Fishing touches to the ouster charges against William R. Hopkins, dismissed Cleveland city manager, are expected to be decided upon in a second meeting of the city council "firing squad" tonight.

Behind doors labeled "strictly private," and barring even newspapermen, the committee appointed to prepare an "indictment" against Hopkins met for a brief hour yesterday afternoon, but emerged without having completed the charges.

Hopkins, meanwhile, free from the duties of the public office he had held for six years, awaited the filing of the charges in order that he could map out his defense for a public hearing before council which will probably be held next Tuesday.

Condemnation of the city council and its ouster action was hurled last night by Rabbi Barnett R. Bricker, ardent Hopkins supporter, who described the situation as comparable to the regime of Boss Tweed and his ring of New York.

"This is the rawest deal perpetrated by a political boss and his clique since the days of Tweed," Rabbi Bricker cried.

Hopkins' dismissal was effected here by an alleged political machine set up in council by Maurice Maschke, Republican leader. Vagueness about the provision of the city charter granting a city manager a hearing upon his dismissal caused members of the council to call upon former councilman A. R. Hatton, author of the charter, at Northwestern University yesterday for interpretation.

Hatton explained that the hearing was provided in order to give council sole power and responsibility for hiring and dismissing the manager without appeal to the courts. He stated that the clause that the manager must be given a hearing if demanded was included to prevent council from taking hasty action and also to put the council squarely on record giving it a chance to change its mind.

Pending the nomination and selection of State Representative Daniel E. Morgan as Hopkins successor, City Law Director Harold H. Burton has been given the reins of the city government.

OHIO FLOODS RECEDE

PLYMOUTH IS WORRIED

Stimson's Effort To Reach Land Early Wrecks
Plans For Reception

PLYMOUTH, England, Jan. 15.—While the turbines of the United States liner George Washington were carrying the American delegation to the naval disarmament conference toward England at full speed today, the authorities of this ancient and historic town were in a state of consternation.

They were fearful that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's desire to reach the scene of the parley in the shortest possible time would have the effect of ruining extensive plans which have been made to accord the distinguished American visitors a ceremonial welcome.

The Plymouth authorities expected the George Washington to arrive in the harbor sometime Friday, and they had laid detailed plans to extend a fitting welcome. Now, however, since it has been learned that Secretary Stimson prevailed upon the skipper of the George Washington to increase his speed in order to bring the vessel into Plymouth by midnight Thursday, these plans have all gone awry.

If the vessel arrives as scheduled, and Secretary Stimson and his delegation decide to proceed at once to London aboard an early morning train, there will be no opportunity for a welcome of any sort, because English officials do not turn out at 1 o'clock in the morning with brass bands for anyone.

Even if Mr. Stimson and his aides decide to remain aboard the liner until 7:30 Friday morning, and come ashore aboard a regular tender, it will be difficult to carry out the reception program. Plymouth, or any other town in England,

BRITISH ANSWER TO FRANCE SATISFIES STIMSON AND PARTY

Americans Are Pleased
With Note On Armament Case

ABOARD S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Great Britain's reply to France's memorandum on disarmament, emphasizing the former's faith in the Kellogg pact as one of the keystones of disarmament, structure was hailed with utmost satisfaction by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson today.

A digest of the British note was received by wireless aboard the George Washington, and was read with great interest by Secretary Stimson and the other members of the American delegation to the forthcoming disarmament parley in London.

The communication is regarded as especially satisfying by virtue of the fact its main points are those which the United States government has stressed from the outset. It is anticipated that the pledges made in the Kellogg pact will be more and more emphasized when the discussions of the conference reach their inevitable critical stage.

The British position, as shown by the note, coincides closely with that maintained by the United States government, affording further proof that Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and President Hoover talked about something else besides cruiser figures during their historic meetings of last October.

No greater tribute could have been paid to the Kellogg pact, according to opinion expressed aboard ship, than the British communication to France, which pointed out that the wide scope of the treaty and the number of its signatories automatically provide guarantees for peace such as the world has never had before.

Skirting a mid-Atlantic storm, the George Washington continues to make good time, and now seems certain of reaching Plymouth by midnight Thursday, as especially requested by Secretary Stimson in order that he might have a full extra day for conferences with the foreign delegation leaders before the disarmament parley gets under way.

REPORT THEFT OF RARE GEMS

SALEM, Mass., Jan. 15.—The theft of $26,000 worth of jewelry and gems from the home of Joseph L. Simon, wealthy real estate operator and personal friend of ex-President Calvin Coolidge was made known today.

The robbery, which occurred some time between New Year's Day and January 11, was reported to the police two days ago. The jewels consisted mostly of unset diamonds.

CANTON FIRE CHIEF
TARGET OF CHARGES

CANTON, O., Jan. 15.—Fire Chief Robert O. Mesner, 83, veteran "smoke-eater" today was preparing a defense to the charges of "inefficiency, discourtesy, and the promiscuous use of profanity," filed by retiring Safety Director Harry M. Kimbel.

Mesner, said to be the second oldest active fire chief in the country, is charged with having used abusive and strong language during a conference with Kimbel.

NICKEL'S WORTH!

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—James Simpson had a grievance to take up with the gas company. Last night he entered the telephone booth of a suburban drugstore and started talking.

When he emerged, quite satisfied with the argument he sent across the wires, he found the store dark and locked. He didn't notice the lights disappear during his spirited conversation.

Fortunately he had another nickel in change. He called the police. They called the druggist from his home and he liberated the customer from whom he made no profit.

RULING OF SUPREME COURT ON SUMMONS MAY SET PRECEDENT

Service Of Summons In Mandamus Case Is Upheld

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 15.—The Ohio supreme court today upheld the issuance of summons by counsel for Dr. Harry Cope, Columbus dentist, calling upon Governor Myers Y. Cooper and the state director of public works to show cause why they should not recognize the validity of the lease which was granted by the public works department which authorized Cope to drill oil and gas wells on state-controlled land in the vicinity of the Portage lakes.

In taking this position, the supreme court overruled the motion of Attorney General Gilbert Bettman that the court quash service of summons. In support of his motion, Bettman argued that summons could not be issued legally in mandamus proceedings. He declared that the proper procedure was the issuance of an alternative writ of mandamus by the court.

Five of the seven members of the supreme court were recorded as voting to overrule the attorney general's motion. These judges are: Chief Justice C. T. Marshall, Florence E. Allen, R. R. Kinkade, James E. Robinson and Thomas A. Jones. Judges Edward S. Mathias and Robert H. Day are the remaining members of the court.

The opinion in the case was written by Chief Justice Marshall who declared that "the statutory writ requiring the defendant to show cause why the peremptory writ should not be allowed is cumulative to, and not inconsistent with, the statutory provision for service of summons as in other civil cases."

This decree of the supreme court, attorneys declared, establishes a precedent in Ohio where it has been customary, in mandamus proceedings, to issue alternative writs instead of summons.

As a result of the supreme court's decision, a conference will be held between Attorney General Bettman and members of his staff, within a day or two, to decide upon the nature of the pleadings to be filed with the court in the Cope case. It was indicated that the attorney general probably will file a demurrer on behalf of the governor asking the court to dismiss the case, so far as it relates to Gov. M. Kimbel.

Mesner, said to be the second oldest active fire chief in the country, is charged with having used abusive and strong language during a conference with Kimbel.

TEMPERATURE DROP CHECKS RAMPAGING STREAMS IS BELIEF

Many Flee Homes As Rivers Overflow
Lowlands

By International News Service
A decided drop in temperature today had partially checked the floods which have been threatening life and property in central and northern Ohio, due to three days of incessant rains.

Meanwhile rivers in northwestern Ohio had overflowed their banks, and hundreds of families in Ottawa and Mechanicsburg were marooned in their homes.

The Blanchard River near Ottawa flowed over its boundaries and surrounded nearly 300 homes. Homes which are located near the Sandusky River at Mechanicsburg were inundated and more than a dozen families were marooned.

Forecast of colder weather in central Ohio, it was hoped, would check the Scioto river, which has been on a rampage. Much damage has already been caused in Marion County. Schools at Larue, Greencamp and Agosta are closed. Pupils and teachers are unable to reach the schools because of high water on the highways.

The water at the Scioto power where the water had reached the residential section, were vacated late yesterday. It was indicated that another half foot rise of the water would completely inundate the town.

The water at the Scioto Power plant, several miles north of Prospect, was 14.7 feet above normal.

Children were taken to school in boats in flooded sections of Massillon.

Thirty roads in the state are under water, it was reported by the State Highway Department.

The stage of the Ohio river at East Liverpool was reported lowered somewhat, but engineers at the lock dams anticipated another rise today. The Sandusky river is still rising at many points.

Traffic has been stopped in many parts of the state. Buses and traction cars have been slowed down due to water-covered roads and tracks.

The Sandusky river at Fremont had reached fourteen feet six inches, this morning and was still rising. The main business section of the town was covered with more than a foot of water. Merchants worked all night moving their goods to safe quarters. Many of the stores have been vacated and business in general has been suspended.

A collapse of some of the buildings in the business district is feared because of an undermining of the section in the flood of 1913. The lower sections of Fremont are covered with four feet of water. Families, who were forced to leave their homes, were housed in higher parts of the city during the night. Preparations are being made to care for hundreds of homeless families tonight.

A report that the Bellevue dam had cracked created a turmoil in northwestern Ohio last night, but the report was unfounded.

PARROT DISEASE HITS SWITZERLAND

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 15.—Psittacosis, or parrot disease, has taken a toll of four deaths in this vicinity during the past week, it was stated today.

According to some reports all the victims were persons who were the customers of a hairdresser who kept a parrot in his shop at Bienn. Others stated the disease was brought from Germany by travelers.

SHORT SKIRTS DOOMED!

Style Dictators Say Long Skirts Here To Stay;
Blue, Peach, Apricot Good Colors

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Milady is going to be wrong this spring if her skirts are not very long; even her day-time skirt must fall from four to six inches below the knee.

That was the fashion edict of the garment retailers of America which 2,000 buyers from all parts of the United States were digesting today.

At the spring promenade of the retailers' association at the Hotel Astor last night 140 models, representing forty-three leading fashion creators, all emphasized the long skirt. No short skirts were shown.

Here are a few rules the well-dressed woman in 1930 will follow, at least the retailers said they should:

Evening gowns must be very long.

Day and sport skirts must fall about six inches below the knee.

Peach and apricot pink are the leading evening frock colors. Old and turquoise blue are also good.

Printed chiffons and taffetas, white satins and moires and frocks in combinations of nets and laces will do.

In the south cotton will be popular. Cotton may even be used for evening gowns.

Elaborate "hostess pajamas" in colors gay as Broadway in silk, satin and velvet are the demerit cri.

WILL PROBE POWER COMMISSION

Charges of Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, right, that the so-called "power trust" has gained part control of the federal power commission's machinery have resulted in a speedy decision of the senate interstate commerce committee to investigate the commission. Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, lower left, chairman of the commerce committee, advocates a searching probe and favors placing transmission of power under strict federal control. Senator Simon D. Fess, of Ohio, upper left, and other members of the Couzens committee have expressed surprise at the sudden decision to investigate.

POLICE AND UNEMPLOYED IN VIOLENT RIOTS IN GERMANY

WORMS, Germany, Jan. 15.—Terrific street clashes between police and unemployed rioters resulted in one death and many persons wounded here today.

Numerous arrests were made after the rioters were quelled by police reinforcements brought from Darmstadt. Among those arrested was a communist deputy of the Prussian Diet.

The street clashes had been occurring intermittently for two days but early this morning they

HISTORIC HARVARD BUILDING RAZED BY SPECTACULAR FIRE

Trophies Destroyed; Financial Leader Will Rebuild

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 15.—The historic Locker building at Harvard stadium, housing many rare Harvard trophies, was destroyed early today by a spectacular fire. Other athletic buildings in the vicinity were for a time threatened.

It was estimated that the damage would reach $150,000.

For a time it was feared that the fire would spread to the $5,000,000 buildings of the Harvard graduate school of business administration, just across the street, but firemen brought the blaze under control.

Hundreds of Harvard undergraduates came to the scene of the fire. Among them was Allan Hoover, son of the president, who ran to the blaze clad in pajamas and sweater.

Before the last dying embers of the leveled structure had been extinguished, an offer to rebuild the Locker building at a cost of $500,000 was made by the father of one of the students at Harvard.

The offer was made by Clarence D. Dillon, head of the New York financial firm of Dillon, Read and Company, and father of Clarence D. Dillon, member of the junior class.

reached their highest pitch when police attempted to clear the streets of a large body of demonstrators.

Rioters armed with rifles and guns openly opposed the police and a battle royal followed.

Snipers fired at the police from rooftops and windows of buildings. It was not until the reinforcements arrived that the police were able to put the ferociously-fighting unemployed to rest. Scores of the rioters were left lying wounded on the streets.

The rioting is believed to have been inspired by widespread communist propaganda throughout Germany for concerted uprisings in the country.

CHEMNITZ, Germany, Jan. 15.—Continued rioting of unemployed strikers here raised the death toll in clashes with police to three today.

CONTINUE TRIAL OF SISTERS ON BALLOT TAMPERING CHARGE

Dispute Over Street
Light Enters In Testimony

BUENOS AIRES, O., Jan. 15.—The trial of Mrs. Eleanor Blake and Mrs. Edna Nelson, sisters, ousted election officials of Crestline, who are charged with ballot tampering, was resumed here today.

An inoffensive street light bounded back into the election scandal when Cora Everett testified yesterday that the defendants asked her to vote for Henry Bornuth for mayor and complained that Mayor L. F. Walbauer, one of the other candidates in the village primary last August, had not treated them right about a street light in front of their home.

Yesterday's testimony also disclosed that the sisters worked for the nomination of M. W. Snyder for village clerk against Elizabeth Lindsey.

The two women are on trial following an inspection of the ballots from Precinct D, in which they were election officials.

The examination disclosed that the ballot had been marked by persons other than the voters.

TRAFFIC TOLL IS INCREASED BY TWO

CLEVELAND, Jan. 15.—The traffic death toll here was boosted to twelve for the new year today following two deaths last night.

Harry Bates, 45, was dead from injuries received when he was struck by a police patrol wagon. Joseph Pesar, 59, died of injuries received when he was struck by a truck.

Charles Sutherland, 39, was reported in a serious condition today with a fractured skull received in a collision between two automobiles. C. F. Treadwell, 28, of Akron, driver of one of the cars, was arrested and charged with careless driving.

ARIZONA OFFICERS CONFIDENT TRIO IS LONG SOUGHT GROUP

Posse Makes Arrest After Gun Duel; Three Wounded

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 15.—Officers were confident today that they had Irene Schroeder, Pennsylvania bandit-murderess, in the Maricopa County jail, following the surrender of a pretty blonde woman and her two companions before an attacking posse of seventy-five men after their ammunition had given out.

The trio, who wounded three officers at Chandler Monday, was subdued in a cave far up the slopes of Estrella Mountains. Twenty shots were exchanged before the ammunition of the bandits was exhausted. No one was wounded.

An airplane circling high overhead directed the posse to the cave in which the bandits were hiding. The outlaws opened fire on the officers as they circled the peak near the cave.

The posse chipped the rocks in the vicinity of the trio with bullets. A prolonged battle was avoided when Mrs. Schroeder and J. W. Crawford came out and surrendered. It was discovered that their ammunition was gone. Dague gave up a few minutes later.

The woman and the two men meekly surrendered and accompanied the posse, headed by Sheriff Charles Wright, to the Maricopa County Jail.

Sheriff Wright said the trio, who refused to admit their identity, were Irene Schroeder, 22, Glen Dague, 32, and J. W. Crawford, 35. These parties are wanted in Pennsylvania in connection with the killing of Corporal Paul Brady of the highway patrol near New Castle, Pa., December 27. Brady was killed when he and a fellow officer attempted to halt a car following a store robbery at Butler, Pa.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 15.—Photographs and fingerprints of Mrs. Irene Schroeder, merciless blonde gunman, and her two male accomplices, who are wanted for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul of the state highway patrol near New Castle, said December, were forwarded today by mail to Phoenix, Ariz., where the trio is reported to be under arrest.

State police headquarters here said that the pictures and prints had been rushed to Phoenix as soon as word of the capture had been received here.

While the woman has been identified definitely as Mrs. Irene Schroeder of Benwood, W. Va., officials said, it has not yet been learned whether her two companions are Glen Dague and J. W. Crawford. State police said, however, they were confident the two men arrested would prove to be the hunted woman's aides.

Arizona authorities have indicated a willingness to turn the woman over to Pennsylvania to meet her fate unless wounds inflicted on a deputy sheriff near Phoenix prove fatal.

Arizona police officials designed to bring Mrs. Schroeder within the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania courts would have to be started by the district attorney of Lawrence County where the highway patrolman was slain.

TESTIMONY STARTS IN BRIBERY TRIAL

CANTON, O., Jan. 15.—With a jury of six men and six women completed, testimony was scheduled to start today in the trial of Albert L. Thayer, New Castle, Pa., architect, accused of having solicited a $7,500 bribe in connection with the awarding of contracts for the Molly Stark tuberculosis sanitarium.

Thayer is specifically charged with having solicited $7,500 from George Melbourne, general contractor for the million-dollar hospital, after a luncheon contract was juggled so that Melbourne, although including it in his general bid, did not have to furnish the floor covering.

The court held the judgment was not in excess of the amount due on the note and that as to the second charge the same, if true, is not sufficient as a matter of law to set aside a cognovit note judgment.

Major And Mrs. Burton Honored Tuesday

HONORING Major and Mrs. Charles V. Burton, retiring superintendent and chief matron of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home here, who are leaving the institution Wednesday, an impromptu and informal reception was arranged by friends in the parlors of the Administration Bldg., Tuesday evening.

Friends at the institution quietly planned the farewell reception Tuesday when they learned that the retiring institution heads and their son, Mr. James Burton, would leave Xenia Wednesday. The affair was arranged as a surprise, and practically all employees of the Home were gathered in the parlors to greet them when they were ushered into the rooms. In the receiving line were Major and Mrs. Burton, Mr. James Burton and the new acting superintendent and chief matron, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Balmer. Included among the guests were members of the Xenia Ministerial Association, who preach each Sunday morning at the Home. The hall and parlors were taxed to capacity by the group. During the reception, children of the institution gathered under the windows and serenaded the departing officials. The youngsters gave a school yell for Major Burton and followed with the popular song, "Carolina Moon, I'm Calling." Another yell was given for Mrs. Burton, followed by the strains of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Major and Mrs. Burton responded with a few words of farewell to the children and then the youngsters sang "The End of a Perfect Day" on the way to their cottages. Many had touching personal farewells with Mrs. Burton.

ELECT FRANK SMITH TO DIRECTORATE OF COMMERCIAL BANK

Frank L. Smith was elected a director of the Commercial and Savings Bank at the annual stockholders' meeting Tuesday afternoon, replacing C. M. Austin, Bellbrook, who has served as a member of the board since the bank was founded in July, 1906 but declined to have his name presented as a candidate for re-election.

The retiring director, pointing out in a letter to bank officials that he "regretted very much to find it necessary to break the pleasant associations with the other members of the board," declared he was forced to take this action because the distance he lives from Xenia and the state of his health will no longer permit him to meet weekly with the board and help direct the policies of the bank.

Other members of the board were re-elected. They were: Ed. S. Foust, W. L. Miller, A. E. Faulkner, Adolph Moser, W. R. Harner and Karl R. Babb.

Directors, at their organization meeting the same afternoon, re-elected present officers of the board. Ed S. Foust was again chosen president, A. E. Faulkner as vice-president and cashier, and J. A. Bales and H. J. Fawcett as assistant cashiers.

R. S. Kingsbury was re-elected president, H. L. Smith, vice-president; M. L. Wolf, cashier, T. D. Kyle and O. M. Whittington, assistant cashiers, at the annual organization meeting of the board of directors of the Citizens National Bank Tuesday afternoon.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

FOREWARNED—Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away, and come again unto you. If ye loved me, ye would rejoice because I said, I go unto the Father, for my Father is greater than I. And now I have told you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye might believe.—John 14:28, 29.

UNION JACK ON AMERICAN SOIL

The state department release on the Anglo-American convention delimiting the boundary line between the Philippine archipelago and the State of North Borneo, a British protectorate, contains the following sentence:

"At the same time it was arranged by an exchange of notes between the secretary of state and the British ambassador that the British North Borneo company should, subject to certain stated conditions, temporarily be left undisturbed in the administration of certain islands off the coast of Borneo which have been administered by that company in accordance with an arrangement effected by an exchange of notes between his majesty's government and the government of the United States on July 3 and July 10, 1909."

The thought of the successors of George III administering any part of American territory doubtless is wormwood in the mouths of those who think that Cornwallis is still chasing Greene across the Carolinas. The admission that the most powerful nation on earth, as Calvin Coolidge has so recently reminded Americans that they are, cannot govern all of its possession, will bring a blush to other cheeks. Americans generally, however, will not bother much about the fate of this handful of islands off the Borneo coast. The islands can't be worth much—or long before now some patriotic senator in Washington would have been waving the flag over them and demanding an investigation.

All told there are 7,083 islands in the Philippine archipelago. Seven thousand of them can make enough trouble for us, without our borrowing any from the 83, as long as the British North Borneo company is kind enough to take them temporarily off our hands.

SOLDIERS AND SENATORS

The attempt of a few admirers in the Cornhusker state to induce General Pershing to enter the senatorial race has met with a refusal. That might have been expected. The prospect of facing the embattled followers of George W. Norris at the polls might daunt even a brave soldier.

The idea that a man who has risen to high rank in the army must necessarily be equipped for high civil office is quite as absurd as the idea that a man who can run a factory can command troops with equal success. The senate is militant enough as it is. Adding a few yards of gold lace to it won't cure the ills from which it is suffering; and neither will they be cured by turning the senate in Washington into what the senate in Canada has become, a home for indigent old politicians, a monument to Canada's regret that it asked the king to cross it off his birthday list.

General Pershing came through the World war without a wound stripe. Why should even his best friends wish now to expose him to the mud-slingers in Nebraska and the snipers in the senate? We can understand why folks out on the prairies want to get rid of George W. Norris. We can't understand why they should want John J. Pershing in his place.

EXCLUSION AND EXTRALITY

The Chinese minister in Washington quotes decision of the supreme court of the United States, sustaining legislation to exclude Asiatics, as justification for China's abrogation of the extraterritorial rights heretofore enjoyed by the treaty powers.

Superficially the parallel is exact. Actually there is a vast difference between exercising a natural right, as the United States did, which has not been diminished by agreement with other nations; and arbitrarily tearing up a contract, which China's "unequal" treaties amount to, as China would like to do. Originally China had the same right to exclude outsiders that the United States has. She abandoned that right, we didn't—and that makes all the difference in the world.

We doubt if the supreme court would hold that the United States could exclude Chinese, if it had outstanding a formal treaty with China allowing them to come in, without first coming to an agreement with China for the annulment of the treaty.

Correspondents on the scene outline the business before congress, but none of them undertake to guess how much of that business the national legislators will deign to transact.

Sometimes the superior virtue of the man who lives in the country is really nothing more nor less than the result of lack of opportunity.

Most of us can easily be reconciled to the failure of the cold wave to hit the town in full force.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

PRIDE FOR COLLEGE BOYS

Dr. John M. Thomas, president of Rutgers university, is for the modern college man. Hear him:

"By and large they are clean, manly and honorable. They will tell the truth, almost all of them, even in a tight place. They are neither yellow, nor red, nor even pink. They have much to learn, but they are learning it faster than any generation of any people on record. They prefer hard games to easy ones. They will do the work that needs doing and the problems that need solving fully as well—and I honestly believe a little better—than we of the older generation have attended to ours."

HEALTH

A well known doctor of excellent reputation tells us to beware of special diet and of violent exercise. Frank diet and exercise are largely responsible for so many deaths between 45 and 55. And what community is not appalled by the number of useful men and good citizens who die in middle age. A reasonable amount of good food and a lot of common sense will keep the average man or woman going longer than any trick system of eating.

INSTALLMENTS

Students of an eastern university are beginning a study of installment buying. Whatever their scientific findings they will probably learn that for Mr. Average Citizen it is a life-saver.

WHY THE SHOOTING?
Somebody has been centering heavy fire on the chain stores. Why attack chain stores? Why attack independent stores? Why attack any kind of legitimate business? Isn't this big, rich country long enough and wide enough to give a healthy chance for life to all?

GLORIOUS YEARS

Prof. Albert A. Michelson, University of Chicago, first American scientist to win the Nobel prize, is 71. He looks back on a life of achievement—and he isn't through.

Says Dr. Michelson:
"I believe that men make their greatest contributions to the world, whatever their particular fields may be, during the twenty-year span of life between 25 and 45. After 45 one merely carries on without much hope of further creative accomplishment."

Wise as he is, the achievements of men much past 45 must cast doubt on Dr. Michelson's judgment. He himself, when he was well over 70, was making his amazing experiments to measure the speed of light.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS

"At what station shall I arrive in Washington?" asks more than one correspondent who plans to see the city. There is only one station in Washington for steam railroads—the monumental Union station, with its 32 tracks. It is the first sight the tourist sees. A splendid first view of the United States Capitol is obtained from the station's main entrance.

Streeter's Claim

What was the nature of Captain Wellington Streeter's claim to the "made land" on the Chicago lake front, maintained by him for many years?

A barge commanded by Captain Streeter was dashed on what was then the Chicago city dump in a storm a generation ago. The captain christened it the "District of Lake Michigan," and proclaimed himself its owner "by right of discovery." As it was not then considered valuable, no one opposed him for some time; meanwhile his title, as a quatter, became difficult to break.

Lifting Power Greater

Is there any reason, other than its scarcity and consequently greater cost, why helium is not always used, as far safer, than the highly inflammable hydrogen gas, to inflate dirigibles?

Yes; hydrogen's lifting power is considerably superior to helium's.

American Sea Power

Is there any contention that the American navy is, in fact, stronger than Great Britain's?

Yes. Hector Bywater, perhaps the foremost British naval authority, points out that America's battleships are superior to Britain's in that they all are exclusive oil burners, and that they have a 45-gun advantage over Britain's in heavy turret ordnance; that Britain has not one cruiser equal to America's ten of the Omaha type; that America's submarines and overseas air strength so far exceeds Britain's as to make a comparison "hardly practicable."

Taller Than Woolworth

Are there any taller buildings in New York than the Woolworth?

Yes, two—Bank of Manhattan and Chrysler—and several others are planned.

Ohio's Beginning

Where does the Ohio river begin?

At Pittsburgh, Pa., being formed by the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers.

Barrymore as Hamlet

Did John Barrymore ever act Hamlet on the legitimate stage?

Yes.

"Gutter Drunkenness"

Is it a fact that Colonel William L. Barker, as head of the Salvation Army's northern section, is authority for the statement that prohibition practically has ended "gutter drunkenness"?

Colonel Barker said: "Prohibition has diverted the Salvation Army's energies from the gutter drunkard to boys and girls in their teens."

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Helen Broderick, who in "Fifty Million Frenchmen" enacts the role of droll, cynical fur buyer in Paris, says the part has become a strain in private life. Her friends expect her to remain "in character" off the stage.

One of the most discouraging tasks in life is endeavoring to live up to a reputation for wise-cracking.

IN REHEARSAL

The Broadway stenographer never says that her boss is "in conference." Instead, she'll tell you "He is at rehearsal."

Even a stage-struck novice can understand how futile it is to try to "crash" a manager at rehearsal.

BACK TO THE OLD DAYS

Because of the excessive number of theaters now available to attractions—there being no playwrights to give the producers anything to fill their show shop with—Broadway playhouses are acquiring an unwelcome variety of amusement. One theater that in past seasons housed many a such place is now the temporary show place of a "magician." The engagement, according to the painted three-sheet outside, is limited to two weeks. But it's been many a long day since a "magician" was standard entertainment on Mazda Lane.

STAGE SECRET

Theatergoers, occasionally note the name "Spelvin" as that of an actor on theater programs—sometimes George, sometimes John, Frank or Edward Jr., and many have wondered at the sustained talent of the Spelvin family. But it's a spoof name. "Spelvin" is the stage-wise means merely that some actor in the cast is doubling and that the management wishes to conceal the fact.

Of course the government's buildings (not counting the ones now under construction, which are regular modern steel and concrete affairs) are middling fire resistant.

The interior and labor departments, and the main offices of the commerce department also, are all right.

The homes of the state, war and navy departments and the older agricultural department buildings would burn—not in the wink of an eye, but if they got a

DANGEROUS CURVES AHEAD

Nation's Capital Filled With Fire Hazards

WASHINGTON.—Although a fire in the Capitol building, only 10 days after flames had left little more than the walls standing of the White House's left wing, did bring from Senator Arthur H. Vaneberg, of Michigan, the ejaculation, "There must be more than coincidence in this!" nevertheless investigation soon left little doubt that coincidence was about all the sequence amounted to.

Coincidence mixed with a modicum of carelessness, that is to say. The truth is, the government ought to be mighty thankful it has not had a sure-enough fire in the last few years.

Ever since the World war, when the departments overflowed all their old quarters, important subdivisions of them have been housed in the most amazing collection of inflammable rattletraps that veritable mountains of almost invaluable records ever were stored in, in any capital in the world.

These shacks were slumped up pell-mell, acres of them in extent, out of almost nothing but lath and plaster, with the country all ready in the world conflict, and literally anything passed muster.

Except that none of them exceeds three stories in height, and probably could be jumped from, through their windows, without a very heavy casualty list, the danger to their occupants' lives, as well as to property, would be frightful. Even as it is, an alarm would have to be instant, for they would burn like card structures.

To be sure, the government's building program will empty the worst of its temporary war-time edifices within a few months, but the risk has been sneezed at for ten long years. For that matter, it is not too late yet for the finest bonfire in the history of Washington.

The authorities know it, and have all along.

"No smoking" signs not only line all the walls of the crates in which a half half of the workers in such departments as those of commerce and the treasury spend their time, but the slightest flicker of flame is banned under dire penalties anywhere in their neighborhoods, outside.

For instance, the census bureau is accommodated in as combustible a shell as if it were made of pasteboard; indeed, more so, for pasteboard might not flare up so readily if it were wet, and the census bureau's mammoth dry-goods box is as parched as tinder.

Needless to say, the census bureau's entire stock in trade is its years' accumulation of statistics. It is no exaggeration to state that an explosion could hardly blow that dried-out framework of two-by-fours to smithereens in shorter order than it would go up in smoke if a playful child held a match to it for a second and a half.

Of course the government's buildings (not counting the ones now under construction, which are regular modern steel and concrete affairs) are middling fire resistant.

The interior and labor departments, and the main offices of the commerce department also, are all right.

The homes of the state, war and navy departments and the older agricultural department buildings would burn—not in the wink of an eye, but if they got a good start, as the west wing of the White House did.

The Capitol, be it understood, is substantial, in its 18th and 19th century way.

It is difficult to imagine a fire that could gain such headway in it (unless it were deliberately set and encouraged, as by the British in 1814) as to damage it seriously—structurally.

A lot of its contents, however, would burn like a pine knot. It is somewhat disquieting to realize that such a fire actually could smoulder in it, as it did recently, undiscovered until flame and smoke burst right out through the roof and dome, for chance passersby to see, and give the alarm.

This menu was planned for four people. Cereal may be added to the breakfast menu, if you wish, but it seems to me for the ordinary worker the sausage and apple rings with crisp toast, are hearty enough without it.

TODAY'S RECIPES

STEAK LOAF—Seasoned ground round steak with one teaspoon salt to one pound meat. Place layer in baking pan, spread with prepared mustard, cover with par-boiled onion rings. Add second layer of steak spread with mustard. Cover with onion rings. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven.

OAT MEAL COOKIES—One cup sugar, one cup shortening, two eggs, one-half cup milk, one and one-half cup raisins or nuts two cups rolled oats, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon soda, two cups flour, one-half teaspoon lemon extract. Cream shortening with sugar, add beaten eggs and milk. Add rolled oats, beat well, then add flour which has been sifted with soda, baking powder and salt. When thoroughly mixed add floured raisins and flavoring. Drop in small portions on a greased baking sheet and bake about 12 to 15 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit.)

CRANBERRY MOLD—One package lemon gelatin, one and one-half cups boiling water, juice one-half lemon, one-half cup celery (finely cut), one-half cup pineapple (finely cut or shredded), one cup thick cranberry sauce (sweetened). Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Chill. When slightly thickened add lemon juice, celery, pineapple and cranberry sauce. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce. Place one teaspoon mayonnaise on top.

CONFECTIONS FOR THE CHILDREN

SPICED RAISINS

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)—One and one-half cups sugar, two tablespoons light corn sirup, one cup water, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, one-half teaspoon ground cloves, one-half teaspoon ginger, one and one-half cups seeded raisins, sugar for rolling raisins. Put the sugar, corn sirup, water and spices into a saucepan and cook, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking, without stirring, until the temperature 238 degrees Fahrenheit is reached (soft ball). Add raisins and cook slowly for several minutes, stirring only enough to separate the raisins and keep the sirup from scorching. Remove from the fire and set in a pan of hot water. Take a few raisins at a time from the sirup drain and drop into granulated sugar. Separate at once and roll each raisin until well covered with sugar.

Peter's Adventures

NO FUN FOR POOR SNAP-BEETLE

"THREE cheers for Cousin Snap-Beetle," sang out Biffer. And "Rah, rah, rah!" chorused the Tumble-Bugs. "You look where you please, do you? Well, you will please to look at the sky as a change from the ground, Cousin!"

"Look up, not down, out, not in!" shrilled the Tumble-Bugs. At this, suddenly all the spunk poor Cousin Snap-Beetle had mustered up left him. "Peter didn't know what all the shouting was about. But Cousin Snap-Beetle was nervous. He whirled about and started to crawl away. Then he stood stock still and tested his wings. Was Snap-Beetle going to take to the air? He wasn't! The Tumble-Bugs and Biffer would not let him. Quick as a wink, and as soon as they saw what he intended, they flung themselves at him. They pushed him and pulled him, and flipped him over on his back. As he lay there kicking with might and main in a great effort to turn himself right side up, the three Tumble-Bugs and Biffer joined claws, and danced around him, shrieking with shrill Beetle laughter.

Peter could not help laughing, the fellow did look comical, but he thought it was too bad for Biffer and the Tumble-Bugs to tease poor old Snap-Beetle. He ran forward. Biffer motioned him back.

"Keep out of this!" said he, and for the first time since Peter and the young Gun-Beetle had become companions in adventure Biffer's voice sounded cross. "It's none of your business, boy, and it's our fun. We're not hurting Snap-Beetle."

Peter stopped short in his tracks and looked hard at Biffer.

"I thought you were a good sport," Biffer said. "You may not hurt Snap-Beetle, but you are making him uncomfortable, and you are certainly not doing as you'd like to be done by. Suppose someone slipped you on your back and made you stay there and made fun of you, in the bargain. Would you like it? Wouldn't it make the Tumble-Bugs mad and miserable?"

"I wouldn't have believed it of you," Biffer said.

Sleepiness

"DEAR DOCTOR: I am in good health, but I am always so very sleepy. I cannot sit down to read or sew without falling asleep in a few minutes. It just takes the life out of me. I am 62 years old, 5 feet, two inches tall, and weigh 145 pounds. What can I do to overcome my trouble?"

MRS. H. Sleepiness, such as you experience, Mrs. H., may be due to a form of toxemia (which really means poison in the blood). Those who are overweight very frequently find they are sleepy most of the time. The poison in the blood in these patients partly comes from the super-saturation with food products and the stagnation due to lack of physical exercise. It may be possible that if you reduce your weight you will lose your symptoms entirely. Of course, I suggest you have a physical check-up to see if there is any other cause for your trouble.

"Dear Doctor: Some time ago I read an advertisement of a pump for developing the breasts, and I sent for one. It is supposed to be used daily, and is claimed to be perfectly harmless and give sure results. Is this true? What is a good way to develop the breasts?"

MRS. O. I don't believe any doctor would advise any sort of manipulation, with a pump or any device, for developing the breasts, Mrs. O.

In the first place, there is always the possibility of harm because the breast tissue is susceptible to cancerous changes, especially after the age of 40, and if there were any latent possibility of this disease, the manipulation would stimulate it. We don't know everything about cancer, by any means, but we do know that chronic irritation is a factor in producing it. In the second place, I don't believe these mechanical devices would accomplish the result desired, because the breast is a glandular tissue, not muscle tissue, and develops after maturity only by the physiologic stimulus to produce milk.

The only thing that can be done for sagging breasts after they have formed, that I know of, is the surgical removal of the excess stretched skin and replanting of the breast tissues in its proper place. This is now done by qualified plastic surgeons.

For those who are interested, we have an article on the Atonic Abdominal Wall, which gives exercises to correct posture, and a pamphlet on Reducing and Gaining Weight. See column rules.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a girl of 17 and have never been out with a boy yet. It is not that I'm not attractive, but my parents are very strict. They give me everything, evening gowns, fur coats, but still I'm not happy, because I'm missing all the good times."

"I went to school with two girls but am not supposed to go with them because they are 'loud.' It is almost driving me mad, in the house every night, as I have no girl or boy friends."

"Won't you please give me some advice? I am crazy for dancing and a good time, and am considered friendly and attractive."

"MELODY."

You're a "poor little rich girl," it seems. Melody. Have everything but friends. Parents like yours are my greatest bugbear, because they are not the ones who are asking for advice, and it is so hard to know what to say to you children. I can't very well tell you to make friends without your parents knowing it. I don't want to make sneaks and liars out of you, even if I could, and yet that is what this attitude of parents goes to young people, in many instances.

There is one thing I can say, however, that my experience has taught me, and this applies to all cases of trouble. "Almost going mad," as you put it, and "all similar ways of giving way to your ills, never helps. Now let's see what you can do to keep normal, and even happy, until such time as you get a chance to get away from your too fond parents. Going away from home is probably the solution. If you can only go to college and make your friends outside."

Have you a hobby? If not, get one. It doesn't matter much what it is. Take music, drawing, painting, collecting, studying nature, the stars, or flowers, but get some kind of an avocation and absorb yourself in it. This may be the means of corraling a few congenial friends, too.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I have been married for several years. My wife's love for me has turned into hatred. She despises the very sight of me. A few days ago, while at work, I got hurt, and her remark in the presence of a male friend of mine was, 'I am only sorry he did not break his neck so I could have gotten rid of him.'"

"This is not the first time she has made such remarks. I have tried to please her in every way. Some time ago when I was away she had an actual love affair with another man, which I forgave. Do you think she is still in love with the other man?"

"Anyhow, inasmuch as I love her, I am willing to give her up to her lover or her fancies. What holds me back is the fear that my conscience may bother me later. Do you think after a long standing love for her I could forget her if I took another wife?"

"Again, I fear that our small children might be the chief sufferers if I leave her. Yet I cannot stand it any longer, for my health is leaving me. Shall I sue her for divorce and ask the custody of the children? Shall I leave her and never come back, or what else?"

"THE FORGIVER"

What is her attitude towards the children? Both your care and hers should be for them first of all. You certainly cannot do this if you leave her and disappear. If, in spite of her shortcomings as a wife, she is a good mother, it would not be right to take the children from her, although I presume you would have no difficulty in getting a divorce if you can prove she made the remarks you quote and meant them. Her whole attitude toward you and the fact that she has been untrue to you at one time, would probably give you the decree.

It is quite possible that, in spite of the fact that you have loved her long and earnestly, you could forget her, at least to the extent of being happy with some one else if you divorced her and remarried, but you would still have to support her and the children—or the children, at least. If she does not care properly for the children and you could have them in your care, could you take care of them?

Could you talk things over with her, saying you are willing to leave if it will make her any happier and the children will be assured a home free of any unkind words and actions?

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Having disposed of Al Spohrer, of the Boston Braves, whom he said was a good catcher but should never have taken up boxing, the one and only Shires, is now said by a wisecracker to be thinking of changing his title from "The Great Shires" and calling himself King Arthur. A Jack of all trades and master of one, to wit: baseball—Arthur is a ball player, a basketball player, an author, a fighter, a lecturer, and a singer. "I May Be Wrong But I Think I'm Wonderful" is one of his favorite songs.

Just as Shires himself pointed out after the "fight," Spohrer demonstrated in his little battle with Arthur that he was actually a great catcher, being on the receiving end of a punishing assortment of blows. At least Judge Emil Fuchs, owner of the Braves, must have derived that satisfaction from the little tilt.

The result of the Boston bout came as a surprise to a majority of baseball fans, inasmuch as Spohrer had been a sparring partner for a number of fairly good fighters. They expected to see him landing doubles and triples on Arthur's chin but it was turned out the Great Shires knocked Spohrer for a home run.

Spohrer made one great mistake, it appears. He went into the battle minus his usual makeup. After the fight he wished he had taken the precaution to wear his mask, chest protector and shinguards.

One scribe made the following comment after the Shires-Spohrer tussle: "Echoes of the winter boxing campaign will ring through the coming baseball season. National League players will remind Al Spohrer of his battle with the Great Shires and American League athletes will certainly recall the Trafton incident to the Great Shires whenever they think it will annoy him most."

The same writer also recalls that when Trafton was at Notre Dame he lost a decision to Hank Anderson, who played on the same Rockne team with him. "Hank was a famous husky. He was riding in an auto with Rockne one time when a truck crowded them off the road. Rockne addressed the truck driver in caustic tones and invited him to come down off that seat and lose a couple of front teeth. The obliging truck driver got down and started for the other car. Kautte gave one glance at the huge figure advancing and said preemptorily: 'Take him, Hank.' And Hank did. It must be nice to have friends like that."

A team which must be admitted to be unique in several respects is possessed by Miami University, regardless of where it finishes in the Buckeye Con. basketball standing this season. Miami's squad includes two pairs of brothers, Robert and Richard Barrett, of Springfield, playing the forwards, and Gerald and Vernon Cheside, of Salem, S. D., playing the guards. Not only that but all four are sophomores.

The Salem High School team on which the Cheside boys played in 1926 won the South Dakota championship and was runner-up in the national scholastic tournament. Gerald Cheside was chosen All-American scholastic guard that year and his brother was selected as all-state center.

Another unusual thing about the Big Red basketball team this season is that Coach Tillotson is letting four lettermen from last year warm the bench much of the time while he plays less experienced men. His most likely combination includes the Barrett and Cheside brothers and Harold North, Cleveland, center, a junior who played as a substitute last year and failed to win his letter.

IRREGULAR MARKET MARKS WEDNESDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Irregularity, with extremely narrow price changes, marked the opening of the stock market today. Prices in the rail shares were well maintained, New York Central opening unchanged at 170 5/8; Allegheny Corp. up 1/4 at 25 3/8; Katy unchanged at 54 5/8; Pennsylvania unchanged at 77 3/8.

Western Union, at the head of the high-priced specialties, dropped off 3 points to 201. Westinghouse was up fractionally at 147 3/4; U. S. Steel up 5/8 at 171 3/4; Bethlehem down 1/4 at 96 1/4 and General Electric up 1/4 at 247 1/4.

TOLEDO COMBATS STRANGE DISEASE

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 15.—With two deaths due to psittacosis, or "parrot fever," having been reported here, city health officials today were concentrating on an effort to prevent further outbreaks of the dreaded disease. Extensive laboratory experiments are being made in endeavor to trace the cause of the disease and develop a cure.

A number of new cases, which are believed to be "parrot fever," are under observation. Dr. H. G. Pammont, acting health director, urged residents of Toledo to take precautions and to avoid sick parrots, but declared that there was no cause for general hysteria.

CONGREGATIONAL DINNER PLANNED BY LUTHERANS HERE

Members and friends of the First Lutheran Church will meet in the Sunday School room, 303 W. Main St., today at 6:00 p. m. for a covered dish supper and a congregational meeting.

According to established custom in the Lutheran Church, each congregation meets at least three times annually, and preferably at the close of the various church quarters. Special meetings may be called by the pastor or Church Council upon giving the congregation two weeks notice in advance.

The meeting Friday night will include a short summary report from the secretary and treasurer of each organization within the church. The secretaries will give a brief resume of the nature and content of the work done by the organization, also indicating when the largest and smallest attendance was on hand, and an average attendance during the quarter. The treasurer's report will include the meetings having the high and low offerings, average offering, total received, total expended and balance in the treasury.

The business meeting will be alternately conducted by the Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, president and John E. Kohl, vice-president of the Church Council. Several important matters concerning church extension and ecclesiastical equipment will be brought before the assembly.

Arrangements for the covered dish supper will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Urschell and Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Filson. There will be a social hour following the business meeting.

FARM MANAGEMENT SPECIALIST WILL SEE FARM ACCOUNTS

J. C. Neff, farm management specialist of Ohio State University, will meet with those farmers keeping farm account records, at the civil service room of the Post Office, Monday morning, January 20, at 9:30 o'clock to summarize and analyze their records.

Forty-two farmers of Greene County are keeping farm account records in co-operation with the extension service, according to County Agent Drake. Each year farm account records are kept, the more valuable they become to the operator as a basis for determining the most profitable system of farming and for making changes in the present organization. Seven men in Greene County who have kept records on their farms for six years have all made definite changes in their farm practices.

Factors affecting the farm labor income are the size and volume of the business, labor efficiency, crop yields, efficiency of livestock and type of farming. A simple record of receipts and expenses together with the inventory when properly summarized and analyzed will show the farmer where the leaks are in his business.

Mr. Neff will conduct a beginners' farm account school at the assembly hall at the Court House, Monday evening, January 20, beginning at 8 o'clock, for those who are keeping records this year. The record books are supplied by the Greene County Farm Bureau.

GUILTY PLEA HALTS TRIAL WEDNESDAY

A scheduled jury trial in Common Pleas Court Wednesday in the case of Albert Black, indicted for burglary and larceny in connection with the alleged theft of a sheep valued at $15 from Roy Matthews last December 17, was called off and the jurors were excused by Judge R. L. Gowdy when Black appeared in court and changed his plea of not guilty to guilty. A jury had not been impaneled.

After hearing certain testimony to support an application of defense counsel for a parole for Black, Judge Gowdy took the request under advisement and will make a further investigation of the case.

BLAST-NO FIRE

No damage was caused by an explosion which resulted when a can of roof paint fell off a cellar stair at the rear of the home of Mrs. J. P. Fletcher, 37 Cincinnati Ave., and struck a hot plate, which was lit at the time, at 6:25 p. m. Tuesday. The explosion of the paint startled the family and neighbors. The fire department was summoned but although the cellar was filled with dense smoke from the paint, no fire resulted.

Deducting the legitimate expense of putting on the drive, amounting to $265.95, a fund of $9,465.02 is available to be pro rated among the ten welfare and character-building agencies which derive support from the fund this year.

CEDARVILLE LOSES TO O. S. U. RESERVES

Cedarville College's four-game winning streak was snapped by a powerful Ohio State University reserve basketball team Tuesday night at Alford gymnasium when the "Yellow Jackets," after leading 21 to 20 at the half, weakened in the last semester and lost by a score of 47 to 30.

Ohio State's reserve team presented a far stronger lineup than when it was swamped by Wilmington College the other night. Hoicomb, a football star, played an outstanding game at guard and on offense tallied ten points. Such a forward, also starred for the visitors. Spence, center, topped Cedarville's scoring with ten counters.

Saturday night Cedarville will play a return game with Rio Grande on the Rio Grande floor and the Borstmen hope to avenge a defeat suffered earlier this season in a game with this team.

Discovery Eliminates Deadly Exhaust Gases

Dr. J. C. W. Frazer, professor of chemistry at the Johns Hopkins University, who claims the discovery of a process to eliminate the deadly carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of automobiles. Carbon monoxide gas is produced by incomplete combustion, and Dr. Frazer's discovery is a chemical catalyst, by which the monoxide is changed to carbon dioxide, a harmless gas. Several severe tests have proven the efficacy of his discovery, Dr. Frazer declares.

STATE OFFICIALS VIEW WILBERFORCE BUILDING PROJECT

A group of four state officials, including three members of the state board of control and Ralph O. Wead, deputy state auditor, formerly Greene County auditor, visited Wilberforce University Tuesday to inspect a site on the state farm on which a new barn costing about $12,000, will be constructed.

An appropriation to finance erection of the barn was granted by the legislature after first being voted by the board of trustees of the C. N. and I. Department, but the state board of control desired to view the premises before releasing the necessary funds.

Including in the visiting group was Harry D. Silver, finance director; Senator Granville Krumler, Preble County, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Rep. William Wendt, Franklin County, chairman of the house finance committee.

The visiting officials were served dinner in the new economics building by the home economics department. In the afternoon regular classes were adjourned and the students of the university assembled in the auditorium of Galloway Hall, where a musical program was given in honor of the state officials, all of whom also gave brief talks. Mr. Wead, in his talk, spoke of the three institutions of higher learning in Greene County namely—Wilberforce University, Cedarville and Antioch Colleges.

The musical program opened with a song by the university quartet, a saxophone solo by Blondi Cobb, a vocal duet by James Lucas and Andrew Berry, a vocal solo by Miss Claude Stephenson, Philadelphia, Pa.; selections by the university Glee Club, a vocal solo by Miss Helen Miller, Columbus; another number by the quartet, and closed with the students giving a regular college yell and the audience singing "America."

EVERYTHING READY FOR "AUNT LUCIA"

Everything was in readiness Wednesday for the opening night's presentation of "Aunt Lucia," a presentation of the college comedy being presented Wednesday and Thursday nights at Central High school auditorium for the Delta Theta Tau Sorority.

Miss Marjorie Drake, director, announced Wednesday a finished cast will present the offering and the curtain will rise at 8:15 o'clock.

Isadore Hyman, Elwood Smith and William Kennedy furnish comedy roles in the production that is expected to be particularly hilarious. In addition to players already mentioned Ben Lickliter also has a part, being the college cheer leader.

The story is based on an amusing plot but features a number of good singing and dancing moments that should help to make it entertaining.

BURGLAR SOUGHT

Nothing is believed to have been stolen by a thief who unhooked a rear door at the Poland Reed Store, W. Main St., and also visited a delicatessen operated at the same location by Mrs. Fred Stephens, 418 N. West St., Tuesday night. That part of the room devoted to the delicatessen business is partitioned off from the seed store. The intruder, who apparently was looking only for money, did not disturb anything else. Patrolman Fred Jones investigated the report.

Victim of Numerous Ills Found Health in New Medicine After All Else Tried Failed

Results are what count, and Konjola can be counted on for results. Konjola triumphs because all of its 32 ingredients work together.

MR. PAUL KULEWSKY attacking disease at its very source. See what Konjola did for Mr. Paul Kulewsky, chief of the Youngstown Y. M. C. A., who says: "Konjola is the only medicine that hit the spot in my case, and I certainly tried plenty of them in my efforts to rid myself of indigestion, constipation and kidney trouble. Even the lightest foods nauseated me. I could not sleep well, and day by day I felt myself slipping. Konjola was recommended and I gave it a trial. What a surprise was ahead of me. All I took were four bottles, and in a month Konjola solved all my health problems. It is easy for me to understand why Konjola has won a million friends. It would have a billion if everyone knew about Konjola what I do."

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Galisher Drug Store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

The Theater

Two types of motion pictures that have benefitted greatly from the introduction of the talkies, are the comedy shorts and the Western out-door pictures.

Ken Maynard, the Western star, is authority for the statement that the Westerns are coming back because they never went out. He refers to the outdoor dramas of the current production rather than the former productions of aimless shooting and deep-dyed villains.

Western actors are scarce because it is difficult to find acting ability and skill at riding, roping and shooting combined in one person. "When talking pictures came in producers saw before them only the prospect of making drawing room stories with no action and musical comedies with dancing and singing and pretty girls," says Maynard. "We, who believed in out of door films, went ahead with experiments and now we can take any action in sound that we made in silent pictures." He predicts that actors will wear their own microphones as they walk or ride, thus registering sound at any speed.

The talkies have been an equal boon to the comedies because that type of picture had practically exhausted its "gags." Now the good old-fashioned ones can be used all over again with sound effects and are funnier than ever.

The sound has also been applied to the animated cartoons with startling amusing effects. This column expects to see movie variety shows in the future, similar to the vaudeville shows of the recent past.

Many vaudeville, musical comedy, phonograph record and radio star performers are making what are called "shorts," one and two-reel pictures with sound effects. Warner Bros. have gone in for this type of entertainment in a big way, having a special department making what they call Vitaphone Varieties.

What's the matter with some theater manager booking a program of these shorts, say seven or eight reels, with a variety of entertainment type, and advertising it as a variety show? People who like comedies and music special-

BISHOP PAUL JONES CONFIRMS CLASS AT EPISCOPAL CHURCH

The Rt. Rev. Paul Jones, Bishop of the Episcopal Church, who is at present assisting in the Episcopal diocese of southern Ohio, confirmed a class of girls at Christ Church Tuesday evening and spoke to a large congregation which came for the special service.

Bishop Jones in his address brought out what he called three dimensions of Christian character building: breadth, height and depth. "This is God's world," he said, "and everything in it works for good. Jesus was supremely conscious of that and felt Himself very close to the Father. Religion is being on God's side. The time is coming when no one can say he is saved as long as there are others who are lost. Individualism has been stressed too much in religion, in business and in politics. Religion is the unity of all. The Kingdom of God for which Jesus worked is the goal."

Preceding the service a congregational dinner was served in the Parish House at which Bishop Jones was guest of honor. The arrangements for the dinner were in charge of women of the church headed by Mrs. C. W. Adair, Prof. W. C. Boyce was soloist at the service with Mrs. Alice Ruthrauff at the organ and Mrs. W. R. Bennington directing the choir.

Even in most severe cases, itching disappears almost as soon as Zemo touches the tender and inflamed surface. Forget the WEATHER MAN'S CHART

The daily weather chart this Winter, as in past Winters, has shown the "mercury" jumping up and down, with quick changes.

Such jumpy weather overworks one who must tend the furnace by hand—and it is next to impossible to keep an even temperature by hand-firing, and old fashioned heating equipment.

The gas heated home, with its "automatic" furnace tender (the thermostat) maintains a temperature so even that the variations in outdoor temperature is unnoticed. Those living in gas heated homes need pay no heed to the weather man's charts and they are entirely untroubled by unstable outdoor temperatures.

Your home can be comfortable with thermostatically regulated gas heat.

Phone now for a heating survey of your home and an estimate of gas heating cost.
